Male hitchhiker sexually assaulted

● Hitchhiker says driver brandished gun and drove to wooded area in Halifax's south end ● Suspect described as being in late 40s, Arabic or Middle Eastern, about six feet tall with black hair, mustache and facial hair

A hitchhiker told police he was sexually assaulted at gunpoint yesterday.

A 37-year-old man was hitchhiking on a Dartmouth highway when he was picked up in a red or green Toyota. The victim told police he didn't know if it was a Tercel or Corolla.

"At this point the victim indicated there was a handgun," said Sgt. Don Moser yesterday. Police say the man led the victim to a wooded area in the south end of Halifax, where the victim was sexually assaulted.

"I don't believe there were any serious injuries," Moser said.

The victim said the man removed a black crew-neck windbreaker and he wore a long-sleeved grey shirt with black sleeves. He also had on dark pants.

Busker return 'against all odds,' says producer

2010 International Busker Festival drew more than 500,000 spectators

Organizer says 11-day festival in danger of folding after 24 years

Let's hope you got your fill of flame throwers and acrobatics.

This year's International Busker Festival, which ended yesterday, might have been the last.

The 11-day festival is strapped for cash and all requests to the province for funding have been declined, said Kim Hendrickson, president of ESP Production and producer of the festival.

"We get recognition from (the province), but that doesn't translate to us as revenue," she said.

"If there is a festival next year, it will be against all odds."

Lorna Nickerson said the festival brings a lot of people into the city, including herself.

"It would definitely be justified for government funding," said the Shel-burne County native while taking in the festival yesterday.

University students may pay more for U-Pass • Students say they're still saving money University students will most likely be paying more for their U-Pass this semester.

A proposal to increase the fee from $116.95 to $134 will be discussed at tomorrow's Halifax Regional council meeting.

U-Pass fees for Nova Scotia Community College students, who participate in a nine-month plan rather than eight months, will increase to $150.

▶ PM's office was deluged with angry emails after refusal to let auditor general look at MPs' expenses

Prime Minister Stephen Harper's inbox was deluged last May with hundreds of angry emails from citizens outraged that MPs wouldn't allow the auditor general to scrutinize their expenses.

"The Conservative Party won't get one more cent from me unless that happens — now," said one typically incensed correspondent.

Said another: "Can you please try to move this country further away from the banana republic it is? What is the problem? Are the greasy little MPs complaining?"

The tsumami of electronic vitriol was sparked by the refusal of an all-party committee of the House of Commons to accede to Auditor General Sheila Fraser's request to audit the books of the lower

Sri lankans fleeing lasting conflict

The story of nearly 500 Tamil migrants who arrived in Canada last week begins decades ago in their home country of Sri Lanka, where separatist Tamil Tiger rebels waged a bloody campaign of terrorism and civil war that lasted for 26 years.

Allegations of abuse and war crimes have tarred both sides of the conflict, and experts say even the end of the civil war last year has failed to calm tensions in the country, particularly for the ethnic Tamils whose lives have been consumed by fighting for a quarter-century.

The men, women and children aboard the MV Sun Sea, which arrived in B.C. near Victoria last Friday after sailing towards Canada's West Coast for months, are expected to make refugee claims arguing the violence in Sri Lanka makes it too dangerous to return home.

In their fight for an independent state called Eelam, the Tigers resorted to assassinations, suicide bombings and the use of child soldiers, often targeting other ethnic Tamils, including Tamil politicians who were sympathetic to the Sri Lankan government.

The group has been labelled a terrorist group in various parts of the world, including Canada.

Ottawa claims some of the migrants aboard the Sun Sea are themselves members of the Tamil Tigers.

On the other side is a government that itself has been accused of war crimes, especially in the dying days of the conflict, for targeting areas where the Tigers had trapped civilians and for keeping hundreds of thousands of Tamils in government-controlled refugee camps. THE CANADIAN PRESS

UN Secretary-General Ban Ki-moon said yesterday he has never seen anything like the flood disaster in Pakistan after surveying the devastation and urged foreign donors to speed up assistance to the 20 million people affected.

Ban's comments reflect the concern of the international community about the unfolding disaster in Pakistan, which is battling al-Qaida and Taliban militants, has a weak and unpopular government, and an anemic economy propped up by international assistance.

"This has been a heartwrenching day for me," Ban said after flying over the hard-hit areas with President Asif Ali Zardari.

Malaise over stock markets getting deeper

▶ But despite gloom-and-doom attitude and slowdown of economies, experts say there's still growth

Stock markets could find themselves smack in the midst of the summer doldrums this week as the second-quarter earnings season winds down and there are few major, market-moving economic reports due.

However, economic data last week gave investors plenty to think about, including more signals that gains will be hard to come by as the recovery stalls.

There has been "some very good news" in the form of a generally positive second-quarter earnings season, said Serge Pepin, director of investments at BMO Investments.

"But it's being overshadowed by the gloom-anddoom attitude, a general malaise out there that there could be a double-dip recession, that the global economy will go back into recession," Pepin added.

"We do not believe that. We really do believe that what we're experiencing is a slowdown of economic growth, but still growth."

The malaise on stock markets deepened last week after the U.S. Federal Reserve confirmed what many investors already suspected — that "the pace of recovery in output and employment has slowed in recent months."

There was a 2.3 per cent slide on the TSX last week while the Dow industrials gave back 3.28 per cent.

Chinese data showed economic growth slowing to 10.3 per cent in the second quarter from 11.9 per cent in the first quarter, as Beijing removed stimulus measures in recognition that the world's No. 3 economy quickly exited from the economic downturn.

On top of that, Mastercard's CEO remarked that he sees "conflicting signals"

"People have been focusing excessively I think on the bad news and it reflects the shaken confidence of investors," added Norman Raschkowan, North American strategist at Mackenzie Financial Corp. THE CAMADIAN PRESS

Cat lovers respond

We asked: What?s the better pet [] dogs or

TORONTO. Where are all the feline lovers?

I like dogs and all animals, but must say that I prefer cats to dogs. Contrary to what most people think, cats are trainable and are very intelligent.

Some cats act more like dogs (such as mine), are highly affectionate and can also play fetch. They are very entertaining and, of course, the purring is so pleasing to the ear.

TORONTO. I've grown up with pets — both cats and a dog and I prefer cats.

Yeah, they can have attitude but that's the attraction. However, each one of my cats — including my current two — have been very affectionate and eager to play. There's no work to get there — if you show them affection, you'll get it back. Rather than worry about being ignored, I sometimes complain that my cats want too much attention.

Cats are more independent than dogs, which is great. I don't have to race home after work to walk them or spend extra money for a dog walker. But when I come home, I get "kisses" and "hugs" from my cats, who are happy to see me. ALLY MCDONALD

From the start, Dina Lohan

"When (Lindsay) went out to Los Angeles when she was 19, I had to let her go and let her live and fall and fail and survive."

made viewers wonder why she had agreed to be there in the first place.

Lohan responded to Lauer's first question, as well as the second, third and fourth, by lashing out at the judge in the case. She said the judge played hardball with her daughter.

"You don't think she deserved time in jail?" Lauer asked. He shrugged it off when she said no and kept up her attack on the judge.

He asked her to respond, without hectoring or false friendliness, to something on the minds of viewers sitting in judgment.

"A lot of people out there, Dina, think that at some point Lindsay had this coming to her, that it was probably even a good thing to get her behind bars for a slightly longer time than it was for the first time and it would be for her own good," he said.

Lohan replied that it was "all propaganda," then threw in an insult, saying that it was something that Lauer, "in the business of entertainment," should know.

She then questioned his facts. After Lauer noted that her daughter had been in rehab four times, she interrupted to say it was really twice. Again, Lauer deflected her to stay with his central point: "Clearly, rehab the first time did not work,' he said.

An hour later, Lauer returned to the point of how many rehab visits Lindsay had been made, rattling off the names of four facilities. Dina said this time it had been three.

Lohan looking at another early exit

Prosecutor predicts Lohan won't spend 90 days in rehab Michael Lohan objects to her leaving early

After she served only a fraction of her 90-day jail sentence, it looks like Lindsay Lohan won't be in rehab for the full 90 days ordered by the court, either.

"Mv understanding from conversations with (Lohan's lawyer) Shawn Chapman Holley is that Miss Lohan could be released early from the treatment facility," Danette Meyers, a prosecutor in the case, tells Radar Online.

"How much earlier she could be released I'm unsure of at this point."

But her dad thinks that's an awful idea.

"My prediction is that Lindsay will get out of rehab early, probably still be on some kind of prescription drugs, she'll go right back to work and go back to hanging out with the same people and everything will once again fall apart," Michael Lohan tells the Web site.

"And this will only have been a band-aid."

Lohan checked into the rehab center on Aug. 2, after serving 13 days of a three-month sentence in Los Angeles county jail.

The judge in her case, Marsha Revel, ordered a last-minute switch to an UCLA rehab facility for what were described, at the time, as security reasons.

Keeping family life private at a time when 500 million people are on Facebook is a challenge made tougher for young early adopters used to living life online but now also juggling the responsibilities of marriage and children.

Petersik wanted only family to know when she was pregnant, and when daughter Clara was born in May. Their joy was tempered by concern that someone in their real-life circle would inadvertently spill the news on Facebook.

Poultry, beef, greens top for food poisoning

SAFETY Cooking chicken on the grill this summer? Be careful Poultry is still the leading culprit in food poisoning outbreaks, U.S. health officials said recently.

Chicken, turkey and other poultry accounted for 17 per cent of the food-borne illness outbreaks reported to the government. Beef and leafy vegetables were close behind, at 16 per cent and 14 per cent. The report from the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention covers outbreaks in 2007. Poultry was also the No. 1 source of outbreaks in Salmonella and other kinds of bacteria caused about half of the outbreaks, the CDC said. Viruses — like norovirus - caused about 40 per cent, mushroom toxin or other chemical agents were blamed for seven per cent. Parasites accounted for one per cent.

Several things can cause an outbreak. For example, an infected person might contaminate the food while handling it. A contaminated food may be left out a room allowing bacteria to multiply. It may not be cooked enough to kill the bacteria.

The CCD counted more than 21,000 illnesses in about 1,100 outbreaks in 48 states and Puerto Rico. There were 18 deaths from food poisoning.

It's far from a complete picture, however. Experts estimates that only about five per cent of people who get food poisoning are part of a recognized outbreak, which is a cluster of two or more cases.

"It's just the tip of the iceberg," said Michael Doyle, head of the University of Georgia's food safety centre.

An estimated 87 million cases of food-borne illness occur in the United States each year, including 371,000 hospitalizations and 5,700 deaths, according to an Associated Press calculation that combines a CDC formula with recent population estimates. Health Canada estimates 11 to 13 million Canadians suffer each year from food-borne illnesses. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

○ Great news — illegal logging has fallen 20 per cent globally, and up to 75 per cent in Brazil and Indonesia

Illegal logging has fallen by 22 per cent globally, and up to 75 per cent in the Brazilian Amazon and Indonesia. This good news was presented in a report by UK think tank Chatham House last month.

"Up to a billion of the world's poorest people are dependent on forests, and reductions in illegal logging are helping to protect their livelihoods," said Sam Lawson, Chatham House Associate Fellow and lead author of the report.

The world's forests also play a vital part in storing carbon and as habitat for half of all terrestrial flora and fauna. Illegal logging is a serious threat not only to the forests' inhabitants but also fuels CO<sub>2</sub> emissions, corruption and conflict.

The study credits political pressure from NGOs and improvement in regulations and practices by the industry for the positive development. However, a lot more needs to be done.

The U.S. Lacey Act and the EU's recent decision to ban imports of illegal tim-

A TFT-label assures the customer that the log can be traced all the way back to its stump.

"It is a challenging process, but it's not impossible." says Scott Poynton.

All logs are tagged and their species, length and diameter are documented. TFT controlled factories are visited three or four times a month to check where logs come from.

"Most of the logging is done by traders who mix logs that are legally logged with those that are illegal. The key place where smuggling of illegal logs come in is just before shipping," says Scott Poynton.

Make Fair Trade All's Fair your trade

How you can bring awareness to your community

It used to be that Fair Trade products were only available in small shops and health-food stores. However, we're starting to see Fair trade items popping up in more mainstream places. But how can you help spread the word about Fair Trade?

TransFair Canada, a national, nonprofit Fair Trade certification organization, has a wealth of information and ideas. In the past three years, they have recognized 14 Canadian towns (including Barrie) as Fair Trade Towns for their commitment to supporting the principles of Fair Trade and are looking for more cities to join the cause. They also offer free promotional materials to support vendors and Fair Trade promotional activities. And they even have a handy Fair Trade Finder that allows you to find vendors by address and by product all over Canada.

But you might already be helping the Fair Trade cause without even knowing it. Many cafés have already begun serving Fair Trade coffee and tea. Supermarkets are stocking Fair Trade items like cocoa and sugar. And even mainstream snack foods are getting in on the action (Cadbury has committed to producing their original Cadbury Dairy Milk chocolate with Fair Trade certified cocoa). To see if a product meets Fair Trade standards, just look for the "Fair Trade Certified" label.

For more information on Fair Trade in Canada, visit www.transfair.ca.

In developed countries. many producers for staples such as cocoa, coffee, and sugar receive subsidies and incentives to protect them in the event of fluctuating market conditions and other unforeseen circumstances that may prevent them from making a liveable wage. Not so in developing countries.

Fair Trade not only ensures that there is a minimum price set for goods that enables producers to cover their costs and take care of their families, but it also requires that hired workers' wages for producers are at least equal to the national minimum wage and that labour conditions are fair and safe. And outside of the Fair Trade minimum, a premium is placed on prices that creates a fund that allows workers and farmers to improve their community through social, economic, and medical intiatives.

Fair Trade also helps the environment, too. Agreements with producers require that water and energy conservation, fire prevention, and management standards are put in place and strictly adhered to. As well, many Fair Trade producers are using skills in composting and chemical reduction to transition to fully organic processes. So the more Fair Trade products are sold, the more families are provided with improved living conditions—and the more green our earth will become!

Be skeptical, Poza stresses, about any position where you call a relative boss. Be even leerier if you won't report to any boss at all. "Make sure there's a real job available," Spector agrees. "They've gone to school precisely to open their own trail, and then they realize that doing that in this economy is not as easy as it once was. So they fall back onto a fail safe: The family business."

ERNESTO POZA ON RECENT GRADS GETTING JOBS WITH THEIR FAMILIES

"There is evidence that more young people are doing the unexpected," says Professor Ernesto Poza, who wrote the Family Business textbook. "They've gone to school precisely to open their own trail, and then they realize that doing that in this economy is not as easy as it once was. So they fall back onto a fail safe: The family business."

The problem, Poza warns, is that youngsters who fall back into a company of kin are too likely to recline — and treat the position like some cushy heirloom in an office where results don't count as much as chromosomes.

Which is why career guides encourage family biz-bound graduates to take a warm up lap in that thankless, brutal job market that lurks beyond the property line.

"Work an outside job for long enough to receive a promotion," Family Business Magazine editor Barbara Spector encourages. "You'll earn credibility with non-family employees, and come in with the feeling that you've accomplished something on your own."

You may even find your place in the company dynasty — the talents, passions, and bright ideas you bring to the tribe.

"Otherwise, the risk is never knowing what you're truly good at," Poza says.

New hires plucked from the family tree need to feel like their recruitment was merited, not inherited, Poza notes. "If you're going into the family business because of a sense of cultural or family duty, owning that decision is next to impossible," he warns. "Your best bet is going to be a heroic act in which you bring the family business back from the brink." Definitely, there's enough family businesses nearing that brink: Small businesses in

No short cut to success, book says

A few weeks ago I had the fortune to be invited to a TED recording for popular speaker and author Richard St. John.

The talk, based around his latest book, The Eight Traits Successful People Have in Common, gives the framework for how people like Oprah Winfrey, Bill Gates and Lance Armstrong achieved their own success ... and I'm not go ing to lie, you will be disappointed to learn that there is no short cut, it's going to take a lot of work. According to St. John, if you are able to focus on the traits he discusses in his book, you can expect to achieve success "in about 10 years."

St. John's eight traits include Passion, Work, Focus, Push, Ideas, Improve, Serve and Persist. St. John discusses how passion creates super achievers and is quick to clarify that success does not always mean money.

Paying tribute to official languages

▶ Radio host says legislators who crafted the Official Languages Act should be applauded ▶ English, French Canadians need to take next step

On the 40th anniversary of the Official Languages Act, host Stuart McLean of CBC Radio 1's Vinyl Café decided to pay public tribute to the federal legislators of 40 years ago.

Remembering the controversy surrounding the Act, and other equally contentious pieces of legislation such as the adoption of a new Canadian flag or the abolition of the death penalty, McLean told his audience: "It was the courage of those Parliaments and the politicians who were in the House at that time that gave me my great respect for the idea of public service and for those who put themselves forward for public service."

"It was something I feel," says McLean of his broad-cast piece, "it should be said more often. Public service people who take a stand for something are not given enough respect. We've been so well served by our public service."

"I remember the anger in English Canada against official bilingualism in Canada," he says of the political and legislative debates of the late 1960s."

In McLean's 1992 book about small town Canada, Welcome Home, English and French Canada don't always seem to know much about each other. One example is the Quebecer who "People are resistant to change, but now few people would argue against bilingualism, the flag or medicare. These are things which Canadians embrace. These are things which define us as Canadians."

has never heard of French Immersion. I ask McLean, who travels across Canada for the Vinyl Café: Have things improved since then?

"I suspect that Canadians are more tolerant, more accepting of each other," he replies, "but it's time for us to go the next step." As he put it in his broadcast, "we haven't been successful with our sense of each other. We have been tolerant and ... accommodating too, but we haven't said that they are also us. We haven't embraced the most fundamental truth about us: that they are us, and we are them." It's the old Martin Buber idea, "I am thou," he tells me.

McLean grew up in the very English-speaking suburb of West Montréal.

"I learned the basics of French at school, but it's when I spent the summer working on a construction site where I was the only "Anglo" within 50 miles that, for the first time ... I understood what it meant to communicate in another language."

Looking back on that experience, he says: "I think I learned not to be shy — I could make errors, be inarticulate. I learned that I could communicate with my high school French."

As an artist who works exclusively in English, McLean realizes that his "work requires a Francophone to make the leap into English," even if the Vinyl Café has presented Francophone performers like 3 gars su'l sofa, Les Batinses, Pierre Lapointe, Ariane Moffatt, Daniel Grenier, and Amélie Lefebvre to enthusiastic audiences across the country. As a citizen, McLean feels that one should be reading Quebec literature, listening to their music and watching their films. "I listen to a fair bit of Quebec music," he says.

"The last thing I listened to was probably my all-time favourite Québécois CD from the 1970s, Harmonium's magnificent Si on avait besoin d'une cinquième saison. We should all be involved in each other's culture."

Halifax's Phil Anderson has his second career Bell and Grant Nova Scotia Open tennis title.

Anderson, who claimed his first championship in 2005, knocked off Bridgewater's Adam Becker in Saturday's men's open final at the Waegwoltic Club in Halifax with a 6-2, 6-3 triumph.

The 20-year-old, a former national 16-and-under outdoor champion and three-time national youth doubles titleholder, is entering his junior year of NCAA Division I tennis at the University of New Mexico at Albuquerque.

He compiled a 16-17 overall singles mark last season and cracked the Mountain West Conference doubles team.

Becker, a former standout at the University of Texas at San Antonio, was looking to win his first Nova Scotia Open title since 2008

On the women's side, it was Halifax resident Marijke Nel earning her second straight crown with a 6-3, 3-6, 7-5 win over Amy Sherlock.

In men's doubles, it was Andrew Oxner and Travis McDonough taking the title, while on the women's side, it was Michelle Karis and Sandy Mackie.

No sure things for Mooseheads' vets

▶ Five 20-year-olds will compete for three roster spots ▶ Three goaltenders will compete for 2 spots

If you're a 20-year-old or a goaltender reporting to Halifax Mooseheads training camp this week, don't unpack your suitcase. You might not be here for long.

The Mooseheads, who open training camp at Cole Harbour Place tomorrow, expect to have five players vying for three over-age spots and three goalies with a legitimate shot at two openings.

"It's a good problem to have," said Mooseheads head coach and general manager Cam Russell.
"It's tough (for the players) but it's like anything in life: Everybody is competing for a job, and unfortunately, not everyone is going to get one."

Forwards Gerrad Grant and Charles Bety, defencemen Pascal Amyot and Paul Dimitruk, and goal-tender Peter Delmas are in the mix for the overage spots.

Delmas and fellow returnee Mathieu Corbeil, 19, along with 17-year-old rookie Anthony Terenzio, give the Mooseheads outstanding depth in the crease, making a goaltending trade a virtual guarantee.

"Some teams have expressed an interest, but I'm not in a hurry right now," Russell said.

Second chance for Palardy?

Justin Palardy appears to be getting a second chance at the Canadian Football League.

The former Saint Mary's Huskies kicker, recently cut as a punter by the Hamilton Tiger Cats, joined the Winnipeg Blue Bombers yesterday morning to audition as an injury fill-in for injured starting placekicker Louie Sakoda, the Winnipeg Sun reported.

320 Atlantic Sport scoring record set by Justin Palardy during his four-year career at Saint Mary's.

In other Huskies news, the Vancouver Province reported the B.C. Lions have sent offensive lineman Adam Baboulas back to Saint Mary's for another season.

Murray does it again

• Fourth seed wins rain-marred Rogers Cup final • First to repeat at tournament since 1995

Andy Murray described his stay in Toronto as "one of the best weeks I've had," when it would have been just as accurate to describe his run at the Rogers Cup as one of the best weeks anyone could have on the ATP World Tour.

The 23-year-old from Scotland beat the topranked player in the world on Saturday, and he followed it with a win over No. 2 yesterday, winning the tournament with a 7-5, 7-5 victory over Roger Federer at Rexall Centre. It was his first title of the year.

Murray has become the first man to repeat in Canada since Andre Agassi did so 15 years ago. He also became only the fifth player to beat both Rafael Nadal and Federer in the same tournament.

Winning a tournament is always great," Murray said. "This is the first time I've beat Roger and Rafa in same tournament. which is probably the most

Attendance

A week that opened with a surprising Canadian victory has ended with record attendance figures at the Rogers Cup, with more than 161,000 fans filing through the gates at York University.

pleasing thing. And I didn't drop a set against either of them — so it's good for the confidence for the next few weeks.'

Play was delayed several times by rain at York University, where the players also had to combat the heat and oppressive humidity in the $2.43-million US event.

"I feel great," Murray said. "Anytime you win a tournament, you're obviously incredibly happy. There's a sense of relief, especially at the end of a match like today, where you're up, and then you get delayed and he comes back at you." THE CANADIAN PRESS

Wild ending at Whistling Straits

PGA Championship in a three-hole playoff yesterday that did not include Dustin Johnson, who was penalized two strokes for grounding his club in a bunker on the last hole Kaymer captured his first major in a PGA Championship that might be remembered as much for a guy who tied for fifth.

Johnson had a one-shot lead playing the final hole at Whistling Straits when he drove into a tiny patch of sand where the gallery had been walking all week. Johnson grounded his club, bunker. He missed the par putt to seemingly slip into a three-man playoff with Kaymer and Bubba Watson. But the two-shot penalty turned his 71 into a 73, and instead of going to a playoff for redemption from his U.S. Open meltdown, he tied for fifth.

As Johnson was leaving the course, Kaymer was coming up clutch again.

Miami Deco wins Breeders'

TORONTO. Miami Deco earned his first career victory with a bang yesterday. The dark bay or brown colt overtook Štormy Lord on the inside down the stretch to capture the $500,000 Breeders' Stakes as a 65-1 longshot.

That surpassed last year's winner Perfect Shower (46-1 odds) for Hall of Fame trainer Roger Attfield as the race's longest-priced winner.

Drug arrest for Heat's Haslem

MARIJUANA. Heat forward Udonis Haslem was arrested yesterday for possession of marijuana following a traffic stop in Miami-Dade County.

Haslem, 30, was stopped around 3:05 p.m. ET because of speeding, Florida Highway Patrol spokesman Sgt. Mark Wysocky said.

Haslem was also charged with illegal window tint, Wysocky said.

A passenger in Haslem's 2008 Mercedes,

Antwain Fleming, was also charged with possession. Both were being transported to Miami-Dade County Jail for processing.

Today's horoscope

T Aries March 21-April 19 You must look on the bright side of life as the new week begins. Don't sit at home brooding about what might have been: get out there and make things happen. Attitude is all important. Make yours ultra positive.

Taurus April 20-May 21

Once you make up your mind about something that's it nothing can make you change it again. You may see that as a strength but it could also be a weakness today. Even a Taurus needs to be flexible some-

II Gemini May 22-June 21 You may have some explaining to do after your escapades over the weekend, but you don't have to make excuses

 Cancer June 22-July 22 You may be pleasantly surprised today that a relationship which has been going through a tough time suddenly sparks back into life. As always, a lot depends on your expectations, so expect the best and you'll probably get it.

Ω Leo July 23-Aug.23 Today's Jupiter-Saturn opposition may undermine your confidence but everything will work out for the best in the end. It always does.

M Virgo Aug. 24- Sept. 22 You will find it quite easy to understand why people behave the way they do today, and that's iust as well as they will be doing some rather strange
